

ANNE THOMOPOULOS

Vice President, Original Programming -- Home Box Office

Anne Thomopoulos was named vice president, original programming, for Home Box Office in March 1992. She is responsible for overseeing HBO's award winning original programming which includes feature films, comedy specials, and late night programming.

Thomopoulos joined HBO after serving as president of Snowback Productions from 1989-1992. As president, she produced feature films starring Michael J. Fox and was also involved in developing features and television projects to be later produced in partnership with the actor.

Thomopoulos was also a development executive for television and feature projects for Witt-Thomas Productions from 1985-1988. Prior to that, she worked for Paramount Pictures/Europe and also at the American Film Institute.

She holds a B.A. degree in English from Georgetown University in Washington D.C.