tar Trek Clock 1.0

In order to run Star Trek Clock you must have a Macintosh with at least 256 colors. It has been tested only on Macs with system 7.

The fact that this is a clock is just an excuse for a application with a full Next Generation style interface. The only window with normal controls is the help window.   An effort was made to make everything as intuitive as possible. All windows can be dragged.

The main window is the only window with the clock display. It is possible to hide all the controls, leaving a window which takes up less space.
