bpInstructions - How to Playq

Incase You have never played Galaxian :

Destroy waves of attacking Galaxians by moving left and right and firing.  The Galaxians will sit in formation above you, and you can pick them off with your Cannon.  Beware - You can only fire one shot at a time.  Your next bullet will not reappear until your last one has disappeared.  Also, the Galaxians become more and more aggressive as the waves proceed.  They will break formation and swoop down on you as they attack.

Scoring :

| Colour | In formation | Attacking |
|---|---|---|
| Green | 30 pts | 60 pts |
| Purple | 40 pts | 80 pts |
| Red | 50 pts | 100 pts |
| Yellow | 60 pts | 120 pts |

If a Galaxian is killed while attacking his score is doubled.  The only exception is when a yellow flagship breaks formation and attacks with two Red Escort ships.  If the Escorts are killed and then the flagship (in that order), then you will score 800 pts. If only one Escort is killed, you will only score 200 pts.

Extra Lives are gained every 7000 pts.

The Main Menu can either be controlled by either Joystick, the function keys, or the currently defined left and right keys.

F1/F2 - From the main menu, you can start either 1 or 2 player games.

F3    - Allows the user to redefine the keyboard layout, incase the default one is not to his/her liking.

p---- Press Space ----qb►

b F4      - Options Menu
        F1 - Select Joystick 0/1 or keyboard for use in the game for player 1.
             Remember that Joystick 0 is the mouse port.
        F2 - Select Joystick 0/1 or
             keyboard for use in the game
             for player 1.
             Remember that Joystick 0 is
             the mouse port.
        F3 - Select difficulty level. With the upper two levels, the game enables an option called "formation bombing".  This allows the Galaxians to bomb while still in formation.
        F4 - Select the number of lives that you begin with. Goes from 3 to 9.

F5 - Allows the user to enable Overscan.  This effectively removes the bottom border of the screen, making the screen aspect closer to the arcade original.  NOTE - THIS WILL NOT WORK ON TT's and ST's with accelerator boards.
F6 - This allows techie types to see how much processor time the game is consuming at any one moment.
F7 - Enable and Disable the Sound FX.  This may be desireable for people who don't absolutely love the YM chip !
F9 - Save the current setup of all of the above options (except the high score table).  This also saves the redefined keys too.
F10- Return to the main menu.
p---- Press Space ----qb▶

F5     - Save the high score table.  Just ensure that there is a write enable disk in the drive.

F6     - Demo mode.  Not for the sqeemish

F10    - Return to GEM Desktop

Notice for Hard Disk Users :

The game will quite happily run off of Hard Disk.  Just stick the program in a folder, and run it.  For those people who have really fast hard Disks and are not worried about space, then you can depack the game with one of the myriad of depackers available in the public domain. (We recommend Mega-Depack 'cause we wrote it !).
