

Peter Sharpe - one of the older Brycers at 60 years of age has been into home computers since they had a maximum RAM capacity of 16K. He has always been interested in computer graphics but was frustrated earlier by the lack of resolution and colour available. Trained as an engineer but now retired after 38 years in the Nuclear Power industry, lives among the inspirational mountains of North Wales in the UK.

Discovered Bryce on the internet and was impressed with the results displayed there - but at the time it was Mac only. As soon as it became available for the PC he bought a copy and the rest is history.

<http://www.petersharpe.com/>