

PostScript Printer Test Page
Distributed Workstation Services
Academic Computing and Media

The image features a large, multi-layered spiral graphic. The text "Testing one, two, three" is repeated in a serif font, following the curve of the spiral. The spiral starts from a small central point and expands outwards, with each layer of text being slightly larger and further from the center than the previous one. The text is oriented radially, meaning it is perpendicular to the lines of the spiral at each point. The overall effect is a sense of depth and motion, as the text appears to recede into the distance.