

related February Issue

Of all of the issues of Teletimes published yet, this must have been the slowest one yet. We had a series of delays due to my absence (fencing competitions out of town) and because of delays related to the new graphics (which, I'm sure you'll agree, are quite impressive.) I was planning on writing an article about Schindler's List to coincide with this month's theme, TV and the Movies, but unfortunately I couldn't find the time.

On to more exciting news...International Teletimes is going to be hosting its first annual Photography Contest! All photos submitted must correspond with the theme for the April issue, Travel. The first prize photo will be displayed on the cover for the April issue. Extra goodies will be handed out to finalists (see next month's issue for details). There is no entry fee, so send us your photos by the March 20th deadline...virtual fame and fortune await!
