

ews Room Debate Column Response

With regard to the debate column: The individual supporting the idea that all speech must be allowed on campus is correct, the other is wrong. There is no debate here. If any speech is allowed to be restricted, who is designated as the restrictor? One of the debators mentioned that everyone knows the Holocaust happened. This is not so. There are those people who believe it never occurred. What if one of them was a restrictor? To safeguard democracy, three absolutes are required: freedom of speech, separation of church and state; and the right to keep and bear arms. Anything less guarantees the eventual slide down the slippery slope to totalitarianism.

- Gerry Roston, Pittsburgh, USA

Tsukuba: Science City (Apr-94)

I read [Prasad Akella's] article in the April Teletimes issue and I liked it. I knew nothing about Tsukuba but now, thanks to you, I do. I'm always interested in learning some interesting facts and your article presented a few (I'm gonna have to check out the Science article for more).

- Otto Grajeda, San Francisco, USA