O
OREGON

Oregon's Autzen Stadium, consistently ranked among the nation's top 10 venues to watch a college football game, saw record attendance figures for the fifth straight year.

Now in its 39th season, the facility, which originally was completed for a remarkable bargain of approximately $2.5 million in 1967, underwent a $90 million facelift prior to the 2002 season that not only added 12,000 seats and 32 luxury boxes to the stadium's south-side skyline, it improved the amenities that allow spectators to enjoy a better game-day experience in one of the loudest collegiate stadiums in the country. The renovation encompassed much-needed restroom and concession facilities, a 10,000-square foot entertainment center (Club at Autzen), widened walkway and concourse areas to better accommodate the increased capacity from 41,698 to 54,000 fans, as well as new ticket distribution centers and guest services windows to cater to the needs of its patrons.

The result was a record number of fans flocking to an athletic arena which has witnessed nearly five million fans walking through the turnstiles to watch Oregon football since 1987. Further emphasizing its popularity is the fact the Ducks have exceeded per-game seating capacity on a season basis nine of the last 10 years and enter this season boasting of a school-record 36 consecutive sellouts.

The history of Autzen Stadium is rich. Former Athletic Director Leo Harris was successful in spearheading the drive to construct a modern and economical football theater to replace historic Hayward Field. Named in honor of Portland lumberman, sportsman and philanthropist Thomas J. Autzen, the stadium is situated on a 90-acre site adjacent to Eugene's Alton Baker Park. The site is immediately north of the Willamette River and is approximately one-quarter mile north of the main campus, easily accessible by a scenic footbridge.

Following Oregon's first outright Pacific-10 Conference championship in 1994, the athletic department named the playing surface of Autzen Stadium after its winningest football coach of all time, Rich Brooks.

Autzen's natural grass playing surface underwent its first facelift in 1969 with the installation of its first artificial turf. The surface was replaced in 1976 and a new covering of OmniTurf was installed before the 1984 campaign. The field was replaced with an OmniTurf surface prior to the 1991 season. In 2001, the Ducks played on NexTurf before upgrading its surface to FieldTurf in 2002, which has polyethylene and polypropylene fibers designed to resist extreme temperature and weather conditions.

The skyline of Autzen Stadium also was first improved in 1981 with the addition of the Barker Stadium Club behind the east end zone. The facility provided the stadium with additional meeting space and functional surroundings for pre-game activities prior to subsequent improvements.

One of the most significant improvements in the history of the athletics department was completed in time for the start of the 1988 season. The press box along the north rim of the stadium was relocated to the south side to make room for the $2.3 million three-story skysuite complex. The project included the construction of 11 individual sky boxes along with a 460-seat master skysuite, with the revenue generated from the leases serving as the cornerstone for financing of the construction of the Len Casanova Athletic Center.

A $4 million MegaVision four-color video display scoreboard was added to the skyline in 1998. Measuring 88 feet by 56 feet at its extreme points, the structure almost doubled the size of the previous scoreboard.

In the first game played at Autzen Stadium, nationally ranked Colorado defeated Oregon, 17-13, on Sept. 23, 1967, before a regional television audience. The program recorded its initial and only win in the first-year stadium that same season on Oct. 21 vs. Idaho, 31-6.

Since its opening, the Ducks have proceeded to accrue a home-field record 126-86-5 (.592), including a 40-8 (.833) ledger from the start of the 1997 season until now. Oregon established a new stadium record for consecutive victories with its 11th straight triumph coming by way of a thrilling triple-overtime win over USC in 1999, and extended that streak to a national-best of 23 wins in a row before Stanford curtailed the second-longest streak in conference history on Oct. 20, 2001 (49-42).

The program's 14 straight Pac-10 home wins during that tenure (1997-01) established a league record that was surpassed by USC (15, 2001-present) last season.

The Ducks went undefeated at Autzen Stadium for the first time ever with their 7-0 record in 1990 and since have duplicated the unbeaten feat in 1998, 1999 and 2000.
