Information on document

Choose Get Info (Command-I) to see a window with information about the size and components of the current document.

The amount of information available depends on the document file type.   More information is available on DiskPaper documents.   You can learn who created the file and with what application, total file size, attached sound size, what alternative display and printing images are enabled, and what security features are enabled.