Installation Options

ReferenZing consists of three modules. You will want to use some of the modules in ReferenZing every day. Some modules will be used less frequently and, depending on your hard drive space, you may wish to leave those on CD-ROM and not transfer them to your hard drive. For this reason, it is possible to install each module of ReferenZing in one of three ways.

1. Turbo Mode:

For fastest performance, use this mode. When installed with Turbo Mode, the complete module is installed on your hard disk and the CD-ROM is not required to run the module. This method is recommended for a frequently used modules such as Webster's Dictionary. (Note that if you do not install all modules in Turbo Mode, the CD-ROM will be still be required to start ReferenZing. Once started, ReferenZing will not use the CD-ROM for the modules installed in Turbo Mode.)

2. Fast mode:

When installed with Fast Mode, a small portion of the module is installed on your hard disk and a larger portion remains on the CD-ROM. The CD-ROM is required to run the module.

3. Space-Saver Mode:

To minimize the use of space on your hard drive, use this mode. When installed with Space-Saver Mode, the complete module remains on your CD-ROM and the CD-ROM is required to run the module.
