A Focus On The Future

The search for new and innovative flooring products drives PermaGrain, and with a firm focus on providing better solutions for tomorrow's flooring needs, we will continue to push the design horizon. Since 1967, PermaGrain has provided architects and designers with a wide selection of design-oriented, performance-based hard surface flooring. It began with the development of acrylic impregnated hardwood in 1967, and extended to cast marble tile beginning in 1983 with the import of Permétage from France, and continued in 1992 with the addition of the Armstone line, all to give designers even increasing design alternatives.

People. Service. Support.

Every member of the PermaGrain team is committed to exceeding the highest expectations of our customers on a daily basis. We constantly strive to find better systems and procedures to improve service through our team-directed workforce, Total Quality Management programs, and a company-wide dedication to employee training and education.

Quality. Value. Performance.

PermaGrain's hardwood and cast stone products are some of the best values in flooring available today. First there is style – a design orientation and just the right colors. When superior performance and reduced maintenance are included, cost savings over more conventional flooring materials can be expected.

There is added value in knowing each of PermaGrain's flooring products is classified by Underwriters Laboratories as to slip resistance, and meet or exceed all current requirements set forth in the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). PermaGrain backs each one of its products with a comprehensive warranty program, including FULL LIFETIME Limited Wear Warranties on its PermaGrain Series and Timeless Series II acrylic impregnated products.

Environment. Commitment. Responsibility.

Since our business puts us close to nature itself, we are sensitive to environmental concerns and committed to the elimination of waste detrimental to the world we live in. PermaGrain's commitment extends to use of timber from sustainable resources, use of wood waste materials for plant heating and power, recycling of scrap stone tile and fragments, filtration and reuse of process water, and incorporation of recycled and recyclable materials into product packaging wherever possible.

The products we make.

PermaGrain currently offers a wide range of both hardwood and cast marble flooring options, including:

The PermaGrain® Series, our original acrylic impregnated solid wood parquet tile.

Timeless® Series II acrylic impregnated engineered plank.

The Paragon® Series acrylic impregnated, solid oak, parquet tile.

GenuWood® II vinyl bonded real hardwood tile.

FineWood® pre-finished, solid oak, parquet tile.

Armstone® Classic 2000 classic granite-look cast marble tile and panels.

Armstone® Treasure presents the finer appearance of sandstone.

Armstone® SPLASH! basic white and black tile with bursts of color.

Armstone® Confetti is a festival of color in a recycled tile.

Permétage® Portfolio granite-look tile is true understated beauty.

Permétage® Travertine provides the timeless appeal of classic quarried travertine marble.

PermaGrain also offers a full range of installation systems, including three choices of flooring adhesives, as well as a comprehensive range of maintenance materials, each specifically tailored to individual product and application needs.
