FlashPoint ZIP/ZIPX for Windows

Read Me!
(Special Limited Time Offer)

ZIP/ZIPX , Version 3.01.01
Preliminary Release 2 -- January, 1992

Richard S. Patterson
FlashPoint Development
P. O. Box 270492
Houston, Texas 77277
(713) 726-1892

Well Its About Time!

A set of true Windows applications that will not only let you look at a ZIP file member directory listing or even extract files, but will let you create, modify, comment and test any ZIP file that is compatible with PKZIP/PKUnZIP, version 1.1, file formats.

There's More To Come!

We promised this release would have been out by December 15, 1991. We released it three weeks later than promised. Still not as bad as OS/2.

We also have some other things yet to do, like write the Registered User Guide and WinHelp application file, FPZIP.HLP, and add a few more features. These won't be done until the end of March, 1992 -- very close to the planned introduction of the next version of your favorite operating environment. When done they'll be shipped to all registered users.

Our Problem!

Naturally, we didn't want to hold up the release of the ZIP/ZIPX for Windows applications, just for a few minor but useful details such as documentation and help files, and we certainly didn't want our users to pay full registration and license fees and then wait a few months for the complete product.

Of course, as any other software company, we would also like to see revenues start rolling in, and not have to wait a few months either.

Our Solution -- A Twenty Percent (20%) Special Discount!

Only one thing to do! Have a sale! Offer a discount for early registrations!

On every pre-paid order received before March 31, 1992, you can deduct a "Special Discount" of twenty percent (20%) off your registration and license fees.

This discount offer applies to both single copy and site licenses.