

Full Volume Studios presents "The Chord Machine". Version 1.1a

This program has been developed as a utility for the guitarist who would prefer to play his instrument than flip and search through chord reference charts or manuals.

Released as Shareware, we hope you find "The Chord Machine" a useful and enjoyable tool.

Upon registration, you will be eligible for two updates at no charge. These first couple updates will be radical addressing issues of speed, and format, as well as, a compilation of enhancements and ideas from current program users.

Your suggestions and ideas are welcome. If your suggestion is used, we will provide that update to you with appreciation at no charge. Underway are plans to add piano chord forms and print functions to assist the serious guitarist and composer.

Contact FVS for free technical support via Email, and since this program has just been introduced, please report any bugs you encounter. (Even if you are an unregistered user.)
