Creating a new Crossword

As well as solving existing crosswords you can also create your own crosswords and distribute them. To do so follow the steps below.

Select the File/New menu (Short cut key: Ctrl+N). A dialogue box like the one below will be displayed. Fill in the fields as required and click on OK.

Once you are back in the main crossword window you need to:

Enter the answers

This is done by typing in the individual characters in the usual way. To change a previously entered letter simply overtype it (Asgard X-Win is ALWAYS in overtype mode).

Mark the squares which have a number and fill in their clues

Click on the square which will have a number and clue(s). A menu will pop up, you have two options. If you number the squares consecutively you select the first choice, Number this square no: x (x is the next consecutive number). The square will be marked with the number and a small dialogue box will come up and here you enter the clues, simple and/or cryptic. (Short cut key: F2)

	Add clues
Simple 1 Across
1 Down
Cryptic 1 Across
1 20411	Cancel OK

If you need to enter a non-consecutive number click on the square and select the Number this square no... option. A small dialogue box come up and you can enter the correct number here. Afterwards you enter the clues as above. (Short cut key: F3)

If you need to edit a previously entered clue, click on the square and select Edit Clues from the pop up menu. (Short cut key: F4)

Block out squares

To make a square black, select the square with the mouse. From the menu which pops up select Make Square Black. (Short cut key: F5)

If you reselect this menu when the square is already black the square will be clear again, i.e. it is possible to enter letters in it again (the menu will have a check mark next to it).

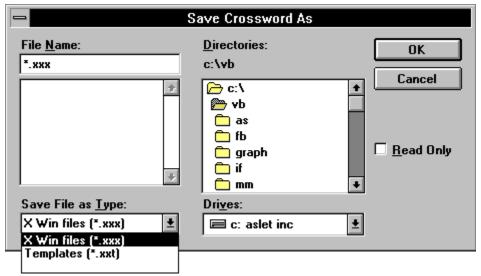

Add a stop line to the right or bottom of a square

Sometimes you may want to add a thick line to the right or bottom of a square. To do this select the square with the mouse. From the menu which pops up select Add black line right/bottom as required. (Short cut key: F6/7)

If you reselect this menu when the square already has a black line this will turn the black line off (the menu will have a check mark next to it).

Save the crossword

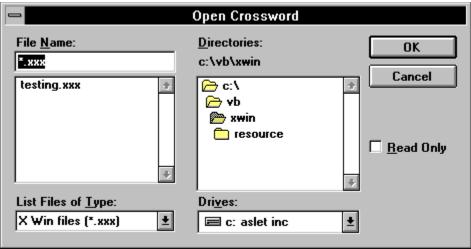

Asgard X-Win can save a crossword as either a template or a standard crossword. A template is a 'skeleton' crossword where you can set up black squares, no of squares etc. and re-use for new crosswords if you often create similar crosswords.

Select the File/Save menu (short cut key: Ctrl+S). A dialogue box will come up, enter a file name for the crossword (max. 8 letters) and select the file type from the box at the bottom of the box. Then click on OK.
