Documents

Black Night can use regular Macintosh documents to save a particular setup. Because you probably only have one modem and one telephone line, you'll probably prefer to use Resource Helpers to save your different setups.

However, if you have more than one modem or you're using MacTCP and Telnet, you may want to have several connection open at once. In this case you should save your settings as documents.

All documents that are saved into the "Home Base" Folder will appear in the "Helpers" menu. Selecting a document from the "Helpers" menu is exactly the same as selecting "Open" from the "File" menu, and selecting the document you want to open; its just a little quicker.
