• About WakeUp Items

WakeUp Items is a control panel that gives you the ability to automatically open applications or files whenever your Macintosh wakes up from sleep mode.

Just as you put items and aliases into the StartUp Items folder when you want them launched at startup, you place files and aliases in the WakeUp Items folder to launch them when your Mac wakes up.

• Requirements

WakeUp Items requires the following:

1) System 7 or higher.

2) A Macintosh that is capable of sleep mode.
At this writing, this includes all PowerBooks and PCI-based PowerMacs, and any Macintosh equipped with version 2.0.4 or higher of St. Clair Software's Sleeper control panel.

WakeUp Items will display a red 'X' over its startup icon if there is a problem during startup, if your Macintosh does not support the necessary sleep features, or if you are not using System 7 or higher.

• Installation

1) Drop the WakeUp Items control panel on your System folder icon.   When asked if you want to put it in the Control Panels folder, answer "OK".

2) Restart your Macintosh.

3) Choose the applications or files that you want to have automatically opened upon wake up.   Put them, or aliases to them, into the WakeUp Items folder inside your System Folder.

You can turn WakeUp Items on and off via the WakeUp Items control panel.   Please remember to pay the shareware fee if you use WakeUp Items!
