This is kind of the soundtrack to an imaginary car chase scene...note the European "police siren" impersonation on my guitar about half way thru! I found a bunch of synth and percussion loops and a drum loop in GarageBand that were intense and then put them onto the timeline almost at random. I listened to the whole mess and rearranged them to have a more predictable form. Then I plugged in my iGuitar, dialed up a crazed sound and went for it. I did the guitar in about an hour, working my way thru improvising melodies and solos. All of the guitar sounds used GarageBand amp simulations too.
