

Screen Savers

Welcome to the illumineX free screen saver collection! This edition of the collection includes sixteen screen saver modules for Mac OS X: BabelBloX, HextriX, MarbleX, RoX, FireWorks, NightOwls, Planets, Qix, Qix Triangle, Spheres, Spline, Tangent Circles, Vines, Wandering Polygon, Warp, and Xirtam.

You are welcome to use all screen savers free of charge and share them with your friends. Please include this document with any screen savers you share, though, so that your friends will be aware of the release notes and license terms of the screen savers.

Feel free to tell us what you think of these screen savers and/or make suggestions for future releases. We hope you enjoy using these screen savers as much as we enjoyed creating them for you!

Installation and Use

Installation and use of screen savers is very simple on Mac OS X:

1. Create a folder called "Screen Savers" in your personal Library folder if there isn't one already there.
2. Drag the screen savers into this new folder from the "Screen Savers" folder found in this disk image.
3. Start up the "System Preferences" program and choose the "Screen Saver" section. (On Mac OS X 10.2, it is called "Screen Effects" instead.) The illumineX screen savers should appear in the list of modules. Select one that looks interesting to you.

4. Click the "Configure" button to change the screen saver's behavior or the "Test" button to see what it will look like when running. Each screen saver's configuration panel has a button labelled "Info" that will give a full explanation of the configuration parameters.

That's all there is to it!

Release Notes

This release adds the HextriX, NightOwls, and Vines screen savers to the collection. Mac OS X 10.0.x is no longer supported by this illumineX product.

There is a minor problem remaining with these screen savers that you may want to know about. Users with two or more monitors may find that some of the screen saver modules may leave artifacts on the secondary monitors. As a result, we recommend that these savers not be used on multi-monitor systems if you experience this problem: Planets, Qix Triangle, Qix, Spline, and Warp. Other screen savers may also leave artifacts, but unlike the listed savers they periodically clear the screen so there is no danger of monitor burn-in if you use them.

Source code is not currently included with this distribution of the illumineX screen savers. However, we may release some source code in the future.
