The Wave-Rave fan club is once again giving away 1000 sets of new Wave petunias to those willing to join their Wave Research Team. I've gotten a set each of the last two years and free plants are always a good thing. This year's free plants will be Shock Wave Coral Crush Petunia and lavender angelonias. All you have to do is sign up to enter the drawing and then agree to complete an e-mail survey they'll send you during the growing season. Here's a link to their home page for anyone interested.

You only have until November 9th to enter, so don't delay! I've already signed up for this year and hopefully I'll be selected again, but anyone who loves to garden and loves Wave petunias should give it a try. You'll have a new color of Wave petunias a full year before they're released to the general public.
