MULtiple TIMER
v 1.0

by David K. Merriman

Another FreeWare utility from Organic Software

This one's a real tough one, folks: all this program does is let you set it up to act as a set of interval timers for a longer period of time.

In other words, if you need to stir that pot of chili every 5 minutes for the next half hour, MULTIMER will act as your reminder.

Operation is real easy: using the scrollbars (1 or 5 count increments), "dial in" how often you need the alarm - using the above example, it would be 5 minutes. Then dial in the duration that you need the reminders - using the above example, it would be 30 minutes, like so:
Once you've gotten some combination of periods that would fit inside the overall duration, the START button becomes active. Click on it, and off you go. You can minimize the window, and when the alarm kicks in, it will restore itself to full size - also enabling the OK button. Clicking on the OK button turns off the alarm (for that period), and lets you re-minimize the window (if you want). Then, when the next period is up, it all happens all over again. If you happen to have the odd bit of time (ie, every 8 minutes for the next half hour), then MULTIMER will also count that last shortened period, as well: for 8 minute periods over half an hour, you would get the 3 alarms, PLUS the last 6-minute alarm. You can cancel the whole thing anywhere along the line with the QUIT button.

Isn't this what you bought a computer FOR ?

The alarms are limited to 99 hours and 59 minutes, each - that should pretty well cover anything within reason. Besides, what do you want for nothing - Rubber Biscuits?

As always, any comments, suggestions, criticisms, etc, are welcome. I can be reached via:

CompuServe - 71043,3153   or Internet - merriman@organic_sw.win.net   or

      David Merriman
      3612 N. Country Club, #271
      Irving, TX   75062-3406