WELLS FARGO REWARDING ACADEMIC PROGRESS

Visit to Hackler Students Excites All!

On Friday, February 25th, WRAP members drove to Hackler Intermediate School to reward our first group of hard-working students, and what a treat it was! Our first session was with the fourth-graders, who were all smiles, especially when they realized they were going to have pizza for lunch. After the kids gathered inside, they went straight to the food, while Mountain Home High School students talked to them about their progress, classes, activities...anything to keep them interested and excited about school.

After lunch, WRAP members introduced our organization and ourselves, each giving a quick summary of what we liked about high school and how many things students could be involved in. Our diverse group of high-school students talked about topics ranging from sports to Band, art to Bomb Squad, and everything in-between. Following these quick presentations, each child was given a goody bag from Wells Fargo, a certificate detailing their achievement, high-fives from every WRAP member, and then sent back to class. WRAP members returned to Hackler to reward the fifth-graders later that day, with equal success.

Many thanks to everyone who helped make this trip possible! Special shout-outs go to Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Monger for working with student schedules, Mrs. Goodwin for taking care of student selection and furnishing a room and drinks, and to Kim Pace at Wells Fargo for supplying the pizza and student rewards. Another reward visit is in the works, and we can't wait to return to see the Hackler students!

5th Grade Chit-Chat

Most of our WRAP members had the opportunity to return to the second lunch with the 5th grade group. A little bit older, little bit taller and a lot more talk. These students weren't as shy as our calm 4th graders.

"They were more interested in telling us what they enjoy doing and were excited if we had the same interests." -Junior Lindsey Wagner
