Noahji's Announcements

MacroSystem GmbH of Witten, Germany is pleased to announce the development of their own video and graphics workstation named DraCo. Based on the Motorola 68060, this powerful machine will ship in the Spring of 1995. For operating systems the Amiga OS will be standard and UNIX and UNIX clone support is expected. Development and production of DraCo are not dependent upon the current Commodore situation, as this computer is custom chipset independent. Any software program which runs on Amiga graphic boards like the Retina and the Picasso will work in DraCo. This includes LightWave, AdPro, Image F/X, Imagine, Bars and Pipes Pro and most every other professional software package. Hardware compatibility is the function of the five Zorro II slots. These slots allow use of the Toccata, Emplant, Ehternet, VLab Y/C and most other hardware boards. Hardware that requires the custom chip set won't run in DraCo. This includes 880K floppies, genlocks, and the Toaster. Pricing is yet to be determined but it will be available in numerous memory and hard drive configurations and will be comparable in price to a similarly equipped A4000. Owners fo the Retina and VLab Motion products will receive attractive upgrade prices directly from Noahji's.

Version 2.0 of MovieShop software for VLab Motion has been released. This new release includes full audio support for VLab Motion from within MovieShop software. The almost unlimited audio possibilities
