\a   {windowsoff} {pgdn} {window}
                {pgdn} {window} {windowson}

\b   {windowsoff} {pgup} {window}
                {pgup} {window} {windowson}

This is an example of a practical use of the command language to synchronize window movement with two windows on the screen. Windows will not move together as they will in 1-2-3. Press Alt-A..

                                This
This is the second page. Now press
Alt-B...
