Scenario

On a special assignment to reveal Merlock's identity, Daisy, the world famous reporter, disappears under mysterious circumstances.

Donald asks Gyro Gearloose for help. He can use Gyro's crazy new invention - a teleporter - to send the evil Merlock to another dimension once and for all. But first, he has to rescue his sweet heart Daisy!

After Donald frees Daisy from Merlock, he sets off for a new adventure, to find the blueprints scattered all over the world by Merlock. They will allow Gyro to complete his Gyro-Gamma-Tubal-Teleport and send Merlock (and Donald) into the D-Dimension.

Description

GBC only

A platform game with lots of personality, featuring the hot-tempered Donald Duck

A gameplay that fits Donald's explosive personality : the mood system

- Donald begins each level, determined, expecting everything to go his way. But things simply won't go as planned !
- When hit, he explodes in frustration and goes berserk for a few seconds. (In the GBC version Donald is "transparent" and is invulnerable for a few seconds). Calming down, he becomes angry. If Donald gets hit again in his angry state, he passes out.

- When Donald is determined, and gets a Candy (there are two types of candies in the GBC version), he becomes hyperactive for several seconds, which allows him to discover hidden parts of the game.

4 worlds : The city of Duckberg, Magica's Haunted Manor, Merlock's Ancient Temple, the Rocky Forest + a Timewarp Room

6 levels per world – 24 levels in all

-1 chase level

-3 regular levels
