

DADDY DAY CARE CAPTIONS

C2-25A

Eddie Murphy stars as Charlie, an out of work advertising executive who decides to open up a child-care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C99-22

Jeff Garlin, center, stars as Phil, who teams up with his former co-worker to open up a child-care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C158-23A

Steve Zahn plays Marvin, an overgrown kid who is hired to help as the number of kids increases at the child-care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C209-34A

Ben (Khamani Griffin, left) has a conversation with his father (Eddie Murphy) in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C243-36A

Ben (Khamani Griffin, left) and his father Charlie (Eddie Murphy) enjoy time together in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C95-9

Eddie Murphy and Khamani Griffin, right, play father and son in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C220-21A-C215-24-R

The kids are all right, but not necessarily the grownups as two out of work advertising executives played by Eddie Murphy, left, and Jeff Garlin decide to go into the child care business in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C102-7A

Charlie (Eddie Murphy, top left), an out of work advertising executive, has his hands full when he decides to open a child care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C80-24

An out of work advertising executive, played by Eddie Murphy, slowly gets the hang of running a child care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C73-30

An out of work advertising executive, played by Eddie Murphy, slowly gets the hang of running a child care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C253-31

An out of work advertising executive, played by Eddie Murphy, slowly adjusts to running a child care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C284-30A

(Top - l to r) Marvin (Steve Zahn), Phil (Jeff Garlin) and Charlie (Eddie Murphy) run a day care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C111-24A

(Top - l to r) Phil (Jeff Garlin), Charlie (Eddie Murphy) and Marvin (Steve Zahn) learn that taking care of kids can be a dirty job, but somebody's gotta do it, in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C274-18A

Phil (Jeff Garlin, left) and Charlie (Eddie Murphy) dress up as vegetables to amuse their child-care charges in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C131-14

Nicky (Arthur Young, left) signs up for Charlie (Eddie Murphy, center) and Phil's (Jeff Garlin) day care facility in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C206-36A

Eddie Murphy, left, plays an out of work dad who agrees to mind his son (Khamani Griffin, center), so his wife (Regina King) can return to work in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C33-20

(L to r) Anjelica Huston plays the headmistress of the Chapman Academy at which Charlie (Eddie Murphy) and Kim (Regina King) hope to enroll their son Ben (Khamani Griffin) in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C187-12A

A harsh headmistress played by Anjelica Huston, left, tries to sabotage a rival day care facility with the help of her assistant, played by Lacey Chabert, in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C270-10

Steve Carr directs Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release starring Eddie Murphy, Jeff Garlin, Steve Zahn and Anjelica Huston. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

C8-10A

(L to r) Eddie Murphy, Kevin Nealon and director Steve Carr discuss a scene in Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release. Photo credit: Bruce McBroom

Joe Roth_2

Joe Roth, executive-producer of Revolution Studios' family comedy Daddy Day Care, a Columbia Pictures release.