Norton Secret Stuff secures the privacy of the files you send through email and over the internet. Norton Secret Stuff allows you to create self-decrypting executables that you can send to anyone without them needing a copy of Secret Stuff to decrypt the file. All you need to do is send the file and tell the intended recipient the password. When they run the executable they'll be prompted for the password and the file will decrypt itself.

Win 95, 3.1 and NT