

Sheet1

WORD,C,10

congress

placard

platform

exactly

ratify

institution

morality

compromise

confuse

conceited

unanimous

ridiculous

medium

hesitate

relish

convex

annul

sallow

lava

tremor

Sheet1

DEFINITION,C,250

a formal meeting of delegates for discussion and action; the chief law-making body of a nation and especially of a republic that a notice posted in a public place: a poster a declaration of the beliefs and goals of a political party or candidate; a level usually raised surface; a raised floor or stage for in manner of great accuracy; so as to match fact or a state; in every way: altogether; quite so: just as you say - used to express to give legal or official approval an established custom, practice, or law; an established society or organization, especially, a public one a system of rules or principles relating to the judgment of right and wrong in human behavior; moral quality: virtue settlement of a dispute by each party giving up some demands; the thing agreed upon by such a settlement to make mentally foggy or uncertain: perplex; to make unclear: blur having too high an opinion of oneself being of one mind: agreeing completely; agreed to by all deserving to be made fun of: absurd, preposterous something that is between or in the middle; the thing by which or through which something is done to stop or pause because of forgetfulness, uncertainty or indecision; to be unwilling enjoyment or delight in something; a strong liking curved or rounded like the outside of a sphere or circle to make ineffective: neutralize, cancel; to bring to an end legally of a grayish greenish yellow color melted rock coming from a volcano; also, such rock that is cooled and hardened a trembling or shaking, usually caused by weakness or disease; a quivering or vibrating motion, especially, a small movement

Sheet1

SENTENCE,C,80

The U.S. @ is composed of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

The protesters carried a large @ on which were written their complaints.

It is amazing that he would run without explaining his political @.

He knew @ what he wanted, and pointed to it.

The president was called upon to @ the 14th Amendment.

It is a scandal that an @ such as slavery could be an acceptable custom.

He almost told a lie, but at the last minute followed the dictates of @.

Since neither side had a chance of winning, they reluctantly agreed to a @.

The directions were long and complicated, sure to @ anyone following them.

Many people thought the president @, having too high an opinion of himself.

The new president was elected by a @ vote of the electoral college.

It is @ to have one presidential platform with totally opposite positions.

Television is perhaps the most used @ of communication today.

He wanted to call her name, but had to @ to catch his breath.

He picked up the hamburger with a @ that was supremely evident.

The piece of glass was @ and smooth and had probably fallen out of a microscope.

They met to @ the contract, since neither was interested in the business.

He saw that she had a @ complexion, and wondered if she might not be sick.

The volcano erupted, and @ came pouring down its sides.

A faint @ ran through the ground, and they began to fear a great earthquake.