

System Optimizer X Version 1.1

Read Me

What it is:

System Optimizer X is a small utility that "optimizes" system performance in Mac OS X. It does this by updating prebindings to executable libraries. Just open the application the click the buton labeled "Update My Prebindings!" or going to File->Update Prebindings (Command-U).

Version History:

Version 1.1 - Text feedback and improved interface elements.

Version 1.0 - Initial release version.

Simple, one button interface - no status feedback. :((I'm working on it!)

Coding/Copywrite:

This application was made by Morgan Davis using REAL Software's REALbasic 3.5.1. This application is copywrited 2001 by me, and I will persue infringments. It is freeware but I would appriciate any donations I can get, for I am a young programmer just trying to get started in the world. Any ammount is appreciated! If you wish to contribute, please feel free to send some dough to my PayPal account. (calx@mac.com) It's risk free and only takes a minute. Thanks for your support!
