

A script showing how it is possible to have multiple idle handlers. Load idle 1 first with "/load idle1" and then "/load idle2" You will see both idle handlers being called independently. Return value is the amount of time until the script should be called next time.