

Legalese:

Do It All! is a trademark of J. Christopher Bell. Copyright 1990-93 by J. Christopher Bell. All rights reserved. Please do not violate any. Do It All! may be distributed non-commercially without charge to the user. It is however distributed on the Shareware system; you are expected to send me money if you use the program. Distribution of Do It All! for profit (beyond the "reasonable" cost of standard storage media) is forbidden unless you have written permission from me. This software is distributed on an "as-is" basis and as such no warranty exists either explicitly or implicitly. J. Christopher Bell will not be responsible for any damage or loss resulting from the use of this software. This is true independent of whether someone "pays a Shareware fee," although any money sent does not represent a purchase but actually a donation as legal income to J. Christopher Bell as a software developer.

Technical Notes:

I developed Do It All! in Object-Oriented C on a Mac IIsi, PowerBook 140, and Mac Plus with testing on all machines I can get my hands on. I have currently about 60 beta testers around the world. If you find anything that you find strange with Do It All!'s behavior on its own or in conjunction with a product or program, please let me know. Perchance it can be avoided. To report bugs, go to the "About Box" and open the registration form and print that out. Fill in any problems you found and send that to me, preferably electronically unless you are sending paper things like money. Versions are ONLY distributed by me if they are known to be bug-free on release. Thanks to the beta-testers...and to my friends who put up with me spending my time trying to save other people's time!