

The Flight of Apollo 13

If Apollo 11 was NASA's greatest triumph, Apollo 13 was its finest hour.

204,956 miles from Earth, when the call came; "Houston, we've had a problem," thousands of NASA employees and contractors worked nonstop against incredible odds to bring Apollo 13 back from the brink of disaster.

Some of the highlights of Apollo 13: A Race Against Time:-

- An authentic recreation of the mission from liftoff to splashdown using video, photographs, original artwork and 3-D animation all brought to life by actual EECOM loop and air-to-ground conversations. These recordings captured every word between the flight controllers, the "back room" -- anyone on the loop as they dealt with a dying spacecraft.
- A videotaped interview with James Lovell, commander of Apollo 13.
- 3-D animation of the interaction of the Earth and moon, showing the complications of getting from here to there -- and back.
- A complete archive of the EECOM loop tapes -- converted to digital format and enhanced for clarity and fidelity.
- Hundreds of photographs, drawings and original paintings.
- A copy of the the report of the Apollo 13 Review Board (The Cortright Report) analyzing what went wrong. Formatted using Common Ground, you can print a replica of the report to any printer.
- A multimedia encyclopaedia of the people, places and events associated with Apollo 13 including anecdotes, facts, figures and surprising revelations.
- Mission Control (MOCR) and the flight directors - the finest job in the space-flight business.

Products

The following list gives brief details about the products offered in the Arts & Letters range.

EXPRESS

This is the top-of-the-range graphics design product, complete with 10,000 items of clipart and 1,000 fonts. Many advanced features are included with a performance that far exceeds other well-known products.

EXPRESS (network licence packs)

Network licence packs for EXPRESS are sets of 5 extra user licences which permit more than one concurrent network user to have access to EXPRESS. Including individual copies of the User Guide, they provide a cost-effective way to provide the facilities of EXPRESS to network users in a corporate or educational environment. Any number of licence packs may be purchased, each providing 5 extra user licences, depending on the size of network involved.

APOLLO 13: A Race Against Time

The latest product in the Arts & Letters product range is available as a 2 CD-ROM set. The first CD is a multimedia encyclopaedia of the people, places and events associated with the Apollo 13 mission. The CD-ROM includes a recreation of the mission from liftoff to splashdown using video, photographs, original artwork and 3-D animation. Apollo 13: A Race Against Time is also available on its own as a jewel-case CD-ROM only.

The second CD-ROM included in the double pack is SpaceAGE, described in the next section.

SpaceAGE

This product is the most complete and up-to-date multimedia encyclopaedia about space flight. It comes complete with a drawing program that includes over 1,000 clipart images and a special collection of images dealing with space. CD-ROM World magazine have declared it to be the "Number 1 Space CD; a stellar reference work." CD-ROM TODAY and CD-ROM magazine both rated it as "EXCELLENT".

DRAW

A less sophisticated drawing package than EXPRESS at around half the price. Nevertheless it includes some 3,000 clipart items and 300 fonts. It offers a budget way of gaining graphics experience, with a product described by CD-ROM Now magazine as a "red-hot Windows drawing package."

BOSSFONTS

This product comprises a copy of Arts & Letters Draw plus clipart, 1,000 fonts and a sophisticated font manager.

DINOSAURS

This product comprises a copy of Arts & Letters Draw plus an extensive dinosaur encyclopaedia. 1,000 general purpose and 400 dinosaur clipart images are included, together with 90 different fonts.

WARBIRDS

This product comprises a copy of Arts & Letters Draw plus an extensive WW1 and WW2 military aircraft encyclopaedia. 1,000 general purpose and many military aircraft clipart images are included, together with 90 different fonts.
