

Using the Simple Dictionary

The simple dictionary does not contain the inflection part. It can be used for invariable parts of speech and for the languages with almost no inflection. The example is an English dictionary. Currently there is no exercise part for the Simple Dictionaries. The dictionaries can be accessed from the "Language Toolkit Reader" program as well.

Adding words to the dictionary is easy. Check the Edit? check box. Type the new word in the text box (at the bottom left-hand corner) and press the Return key. You can fill the translation (box at the top right-hand corner) and the comments parts then. To disable editing you should uncheck the Edit? box. To remove the word from the database choose Cut or Clear after selecting the required word from the list.

Auto Find Clipboard

The program can automatically perform a database search for the Clipboard contents. It works from all applications but sometimes you have to switch back to the "Verbs and Nouns" program to initiate search. This is a convenient method to search the database while you are working on text with a word-processor or browser. Check the Auto Find Clipboard menu item and copy a given word to the clipboard. The Main Browse Window should be opened.
