

Space Science Student Involvement Program (SSIP)The SSIP is an annual competition for students in grades 7-12 sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association and NASA.The competition fosters student creativity in four categoriesincluding space station, zero gravity, and wind tunnel researchand in journalism. Student winners receive opportunities to visit NASA facilities and interact with NASA scientists and engineers. Additional information about the competition is available from the address below.

National Science Teachers Association
1742 Connecticut Ave., N.W.
Washington, DC 20009