RIGHT-TO_COPY and SITE LICENSE INFORMATION

What are right-to-copy and site licenses? These licenses are an easy and inexpensive way for more than one person to legally use one copy of a program on more than one computer at a time. Site and right-to-copy licenses are designed for educational and governmental institutions, corporations, corporate departments, offices, or workgroups where more than one person in the organization needs to use a software product but does not need additional manuals or disks. Site and right-to-copy licensing gives these organizations the ability to equip their personnel with the software tools they need at a minimal cost.

Here's how site and right-to-copy licensing works: the purchasing organization (the licensee) provides a single point of contact (a person) for shipping, technical support, upgrades, etc., and we (the licensor) provide a "master" of the disks, manual, and any other parts of the package needed to make it operate properly. You (the licensee) then make copies of the master disk(s) and manual and distribute them to the users of FasType.

BASIC LICENSE DEFINITIONS

Single-User License:

One copy of the program is run on one PC with one keyboard. A network file server with one copy of the program shared by many PC's requires a Right-To-Copy license.

Site License:

Unlimited copying and use permitted for users at a single site. A single site is defined as one building or a group of buildings with a single mailing address. APO and FPO mailing addresses are excluded. An example would be a college campus, a high school, a training facility. A site license allows unlimited INTERNAL use of FasType, on any number of workstations/keyboard at the specified location. Your organization's name and address are displayed on the programs' title screen.

NOTE: We have SCHOOL DISTRICT licenses too, please call us to discuss pricing.

Right-To-Copy:

Copying is permitted up to the QUANTITY ORDERED. Use of each copy is NOT restricted to a single building or mailing address. Schools may order a Right-to-Copy license for small class-room networks. Usage of FasType on a network constitutes usage of it for each workstation/"keyboard" connected to the network, whether FasType is used on each of the workstations or not. A fully registered and paid-for copy of FasType is required for each workstation/"keyboard".
