

Why an SI?

The first time you Link comments, questions, a subscription form or whatever to us here at Nautilus, you will be asked to enter a Subscriber Identification number. You are given an SI number when you become a subscriber to Nautilus. The SI number is your electronic address. However, even if you are not a subscriber and don't yet have an SI, you can Link messages to us. So don't let that stop you from sending your opinions our way. We look forward to hearing from you.

Where do I get my SI?

When you subscribe to Nautilus, you will receive your SI in a separate letter. You should receive this letter before you receive your first subscription disc. If you do not receive a letter, or need other assistance, simply contact Nautilus Customer Service. While we cannot provide your SI over the phone, we will mail it to you upon request.
