

PROVERBS FOR THE MILLENIUM

- * Home is where you hang your @
- * The e-mail of the species is deadlier than the mail
- * A journey of a thousand sites begins with a single click
- * You can't teach a new mouse old clicks
- * C:\ is the root of all directories
- * Don't put all your hypes in one home page
- * Pentium wise; pen and paper foolish
- * The modem is the message
- * Too many clicks spoil the browse
- * The geek shall inherit the earth
- * A chat has nine lives
- * Don't byte off more than you can view

WHERE DO YOU WANT TO GO TODAY?

Try doing a search for hell at www.infoseek.com
Here is one of the results: www.microsoft.com

You've Got m@il

In their romance in a recent movie playing in Indian theatres, Meg Ryan and Tom

Hanks are at loggerheads early on, but finally the relationship flowers. Guess which notebooks did they use? An IBM ThinkPad for the stuffy Tom and an Apple Powerbook for the flighty Meg.

Truth is stranger than fiction, and Apple's PowerPC is finally moving towards the IBM-compatible standard. May they live happily ever after!

"The fastest growing e-commerce site on the Internet" seems to take every opportunity to live up to its name. When the new Vice-President of BUY.COM took over his job, he sent a courtesy card introducing himself to our Editor. He invited him to visit their Web site and also thoughtfully added "...and even better, buy something from us". Bye, BUY! Go #$$%^&*

WHAT'S IN STORE?

Think you have problems with hard disk space? Get some perspective! IDC estimates the amount of data stored world wide to be nearly 300 pedabytes. Pedabyte?!

This is what it means:
1 Pedabyte = 1,024 terabytes;
1 Terabyte = 1,024 gigabytes

Assuming that an average hard drive is 1 GB, this would mean that there is 315 million hard disk drives worth of data floating out there that God manages.

And you thought that you had troubles.

FLIPPED OVER

Wonder how many people flipped on this advertisement for an educational institute. Well, the keyboard certainly did flip over.

