

Code Page. The code page specifies how character values are mapped to character glyphs (graphics). If your code is a Windows 95 executable, then it should be stamped as "Windows, Multilingual" and not "Unicode" since Windows 95 only supports a subset of the Unicode APIs.