When you save normally:

Saving normally stores a record of any changes you made in the movie, but does not store any segments you pasted into it.

The saved movie plays correctly according to your changes, but if you copied segments from other movies, this movie can play only when the original movies are on a disk connected to your computer. This is called a "dependency."