

If the document is a different language than the currently selected application, then when you open the document for printing text may be reflowed due to the differences in hyphenation rules.