The easiest and quickest way to create two-point perspective is to drag one of the grid box's handles diagonally. By doing so, you change the length of two adjacent sides of the grid box, which makes the object appear to recede toward two different points.

1. Drag the top-left handle towards the center of the object. When you release, two-point perspective is created.

2. Repeat step 1 on any handle to change the perspective.