

TEAMS HOPE UNIFORM LUCK HOLDS

The Buffalo Bills, Seattle Seahawks, and Washington Redskins enter the 2002 season with new uniforms, and they hope that the NFL's style streak holds. The past five seasons that NFL teams have adopted major uniform changes, at least one team in each of those years has made the playoffs. The last team to perform the sartorial feat was the New York Giants in 2000 when they went to Super Bowl XXXV. The lineup of teams that made the playoffs with new uniforms:

Team	Uniform Change Year	Playoffs
Philadelphia Eagles	1996	Played in Wild Card
Denver Broncos	1997	Won Super Bowl XXXII
Tampa Bay Buccaneers	1997	Advanced to Divisional Playoffs
New York Jets	1998	Advanced to AFC Championship
Tennessee Titans	1999	Advanced to Super Bowl XXXIV
New York Giants	2000	Advanced to Super Bowl XXXV
St. Louis Rams	2000	Played in Wild Card
