

Baby Stuff Contents

Introduction

Baby Stuff!! allows a child to play on the keyboard and see shapes and colors appear, without harming anything. The child will learn the shapes and colors very quickly while watching them on the screen.

When the parent wants to change the setup, you press ESC then F12, it is very unlikely that the child will happen to press the two keys right after one another.

This is ShareWare, it is requested that you pay $10 after a 30 day trial period, for the product. A small price to see your child learning (and possibly out of your hair for a while), and to support my efforts to produce more software for small children, for which there is very little.

Erik S. Peterson accepts no liability, and expresses no warranty, or guarantee of any sort.

I appreciate any correspondence, suggestions, and any donation if you feel $10 is too much or too little.
