

The SINGLE CORNER

11-15, 22-18

So named because both sides develop immediately from their respective single corners. This opening offers almost limitless scope for diversified play, and is more or less even. The return jump is almost always 25-18 since 26-17 leaves the second player in a very weak position.