

Amy LaPlaca

Hello! My name is Amy LaPlaca, and I am a Fine Arts major at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Although my concentration is graphic design and computer arts, I also love to use my creative abilities for painting, drawing and photography. Working with colored pencils, which is what was used in these drawings, has always been one of my favorites. I selected these images's out of a pile of Corvette photo's, according to which one's really caught my eye. Graduate school for further education in design and possibly getting certified in education are part of my future plans.