

DialMSN v1.0
© 1996 Firas El-Hasan

If you use The Microsoft Network as your primary Internet connection, you probably know the frustration of launching an Internet application, such as a web browser, and then waiting for entire MSN Dialer program to load. Now, with DialMSN, you can selectively turn this off, so that only the Dial Up Networking connection box will appear. This method is much faster, saves a lot of time, and is significantly more efficient than using the standard MSN Dialer if all you want to do is the use the Internet. With DialMSN, you can enable this feature at will.

Directions

- Start DialMSN
- Check which MSN numbers you want to disable the Dialer for
- Click on Apply, then Exit

To see DialMSN in action:

- Simply launch your web browser, and instead of the normal MSN Dialer appearing to connect to the Internet, you should see the Dial Up Networking connection box appear
