When PowerCD is loaded, the Feature Presentation automatically begins to play. It is a forty-five to ninety minute continuous multimedia program that allows you to explore the subject at your own pace and in the manner you choose. To pause the Feature Presentation, select the Pause Button located in the lower left corner of the screen. To continue playing the Feature Presentation, select the Play Button located next to the Pause Button.

In addition to the Feature Presentation, PowerCD contains a Presentation, Text, View, Question, and Quiz mode. Presentation mode contains other multimedia presentations that provide topical, in-depth studies of the material; these are not automatically played when PowerCD is loaded. Text mode contains numerous documents that provide information supplemental to what is found in the Feature Presentation and Presentation modes. View mode is a collection of selected views and corresponding audio captions (found in certain PowerCD titles) and can be played in an automatic sequence. Questions relating to the subject of the title can be found in Question mode, which help you reinforce what you have learned. If you would like to review your comprehension and test your knowledge of the subject, timed quizzes may be taken in Quiz mode.

The screenshot shows a software window titled "PowerCD - European Literature: The Ancient World - The Renaissance". The menu bar includes "File", "Edit", "GoTo", "Contents", "Reference", "Controls", and "Help". The main content area is titled "A Survey of Renaissance Literature" and contains a question: "During the Renaissance, humanist philosophy was most frequently frustrated by what force?". To the right of the question is a small, square, textured graphic. Below the graphic is a "Topics" button with a red icon and a magnifying glass icon. Below the question are four multiple-choice options: a) Poverty, ignorance, and disease; b) The persistent political turmoil; c) The fatalism in Greek and Roman classics; d) The opposition of the Roman Catholic Church. The bottom status bar shows "Question 60", a timer at "00:05", several small icons, and navigation controls with "1/1" on the right.

The menu bar includes "File", "Edit", "GoTo", "Contents", "Reference", "Controls", and "Help". The main content area is titled "A Survey of Renaissance Literature" and displays the question "b) The persistent political turmoil". Below the question, the text reads: "Correct. Humanism optimistically asserted that it is within the capacity of the human race to solve all problems and to bring forth an orderly and peaceful society. Thus, chronic political turmoil and immorality at high and low levels of society constantly frustrated them." A "Topics" button is located in the upper right corner of the content area. The status bar at the bottom shows "Question 68", a progress indicator, and "1/1".

 Select the Printer Button to print the contents of an index.

 Select the Cancel Button or press the Escape key to close an index.

In addition to the Main Index, some documents within PowerCD may contain their own Local Index. To display this index:

 Choose Local Index from the Reference Menu.

 Use the Ctrl+L key combination.

When a Local Index does not exist for the current document, the last index you were last in will be displayed.

This is the Main Index. To display it, choose Main Index from the Reference Menu, use the Ctrl+I key combination, or select the Main Index button located at the bottom of the PowerCD window. Click on any part of the graphic for a further explanation.

References are documents in PowerCD that are related to the current document or page. These references can include questions, enlarged views, entries from an encyclopedia, or an index of related items. These references appear as blue text throughout PowerCD and can be selected with your mouse. To go to one of these references:

Select the blue reference term.

Or

- 1) Choose Show Reference from the Reference Menu.
- 2) Select one of the references from the Reference List.

To close the Reference List, select the Cancel Button or press the Escape key.

This is the Reference List. To display it, choose Show Reference from the Reference Menu. Click on any part of the graphic for a further explanation.

Feature Presentation mode is the main multimedia program of PowerCD and automatically begins playing when you run PowerCD.

Consisting of selected documents containing text, audio, and images that are played in a pre-set order, Feature Presentation mode allows you to learn in an interactive and exciting way as you explore the material and shape the very way you learn.

To pause the Feature Presentation, select the Pause Button located in the lower left corner of the PowerCD window.

Presentation mode contains selected presentations that are self-playing and which provide topical and in-depth discussions.

These presentations combine text, audio, and images to allow you to further explore the subject, as well as learn more about the PowerCD operating environment.

Text mode houses volumes of information that complements and provides a background for the material found in Feature Presentation and Presentation mode.

Choose from the numerous text documents to explore specific topics, books, and writings that interest you. Everything you need is now just on one CD-ROM!

To change pages within Text mode, select the Page Up and Page Down Buttons located in the lower right corner of the PowerCD window.

View mode lets you view selected images that link to other modes. You can play these views and, on some titles, their corresponding audio captions in an automatic sequence, or just browse through them at your own pace.

This can be very useful for photographers and artists who are interested in studying the many photographs, paintings, and drawings found in PowerCD titles.

To pause or play this sequence and audio, select the Pause and Play Buttons located in the lower left corner of the PowerCD window.

Question mode includes several interactive questions about the title subject. These questions are a valuable asset in testing your knowledge of the material and for finding those areas in which further study is required.

To help you in your learning process, these questions are interactive and include full answers and explanations. It's like having your own personal tutor.

Quiz mode contains several different randomized quizzes that cover all the subject areas of the title material. These quizzes are timed and let you test yourself and your knowledge of the subject.

You can set the total time allowed for each quiz and the number of questions for each quiz, thus allowing you to adjust the quiz to your ability. Your complete quiz results are displayed in the Quiz Results document, which allows you to see how well you scored and return to those questions you missed.
