Screen Saver Settings-

Time interval- The number entered here (in microseconds) puts a delay between frames of animation. Adjust this and initial x velocity to obtain the optimal animation playback speed for your system.

Initial X position- The number entered here determines the leftmost starting position for the animation. A large negative number will cause the animation to start far off screen. A positive number will cause it to start within the working area of the screen.

Initial Y position- This number determines the top to bottom starting position of the animation.

Initial X velocity- This number determines the spacing between the animation cells (individual drawings).

Voice interval- The number entered here (in seconds) puts a delay between each time that you hear "Here Kitty".

Sound- If the sound box is checked, and you have a properly installed sound device, the sound track will be played along with the animation. Just uncheck it if you prefer not to have sound.

Password- If you check this box, a dialog box will appear prompting you to enter a password. If you have already entered a password, a dialog box will appear prompting you to change the password. Once you enter a password, you must remember it in order to change it.

With the password option in effect, when the screen saver is activated, a keypress or mouse move will call a dialog box asking for the password. The correct password will deactivate the screen saver. An incorrect password will return you to the animation.

Defaults- Selecting this button will restore the original default value to all of the settings.
