

Daffodils

Also called narcissus or jonquil

(Narcissus sp.)

Narcissus is the botanical name of the whole family, but the narcissus is also a short-cupped member of the family. Daffodil is the common name for the tribe, but also refers to those flowers with long trumpets. The golden blooms of the daffodil are one of the most refreshing sights in mid-spring. Daffodils and jonquils bloom atop stems that range from 6 to 12 inches high in a variety of flower shapes. The flowers are white, yellow, or a combination of both with a few varieties that come close to being pink. Many are fragrant.

Soil: Well-drained, rich soil

Light: Full sun to part shade

Planting Depth: 8 inches

Planting Distance: 6 to 12 inches, depending on the variety

Comments

Daffodils are excellent bulbs for naturalizing, but since their foliage hangs on until early summer, be sure to put them in a place where they can be left undisturbed.
