

Japanese and Cucumber Beetles

These beetles are flower and fruit feeders. The larvae feed underground on roots. Control is difficult. Applying insecticide frequently to infested foliage may be required. Protect small trees, roses, and vegetables by covering with plastic or cloth netting as soon as beetles begin to appear.