

Buttercup

(Ranunculus)

Buttercup covers a variety of plants from those that are decorative to others that are more weedy. The flowers are yellow or white, appearing in mid-May over leaves and stems that creep along the ground. Some members of this family adapt well to rock gardens.